CATALOGUE

JOAN O'NEILL & DIRK H.R. SPENNEMANN

The Catalogue has been arranged based on the original order in which the books and pamphlets were encountered in 1999. There is evidence that the order of the books as found in 1999 was largely based on a reshelving which occurred in 1984 on occasion of the last conservation action. The contents of the deBrum library were documented by Joan O'Neill while the holdings at the Alele Museum were recorded by Dirk H.R. Spennemann. The latter amended the catalogue descriptions of the Likiep material, if this could be done equivocally. A number of books were not retrieved from the shelves on Likiep as they were deemed too fragile. In view of their overall condition, the low market value, and overall quite common nature of the items, and in particular in view of the almost unretrievable condition of the items, this was in hindsight a mistake. As the future of the library in place is uncertain, and as many of the items have decayed past a reading condition, a complete catalogue would have been more desirable.
