Have a look at other customers who successfully work with our solutions. Retailing is important because it allows manufacturers to focus on producing goods without having to be distracted by the enormous amount of effort that it takes to interact with the end-user customers who want to purchase those goods. Retailers should make the purchase of goods easy for the consumer. That’s why retail stores have salespeople, why Internet shopping websites have customer service instant chat popups, and why catalogs have descriptions, photos, and toll-free phone numbers. retailing definition: the activity of selling goods to the public in stores or on the internet: .
