Harry Houdini (/huˈdiːni/; born Erik Weisz, later Ehrich Weiss or Harry Weiss; March 24, 1874 – October 31, 1926) was a Hungarian-born American illusionist and stunt performer, noted for his sensational escape acts. He first attracted notice in vaudeville in the US and then as "Harry Handcuff Houdini" on a tour of Europe, where he challenged police forces to keep him locked up. Soon he extended his repertoire to include chains, ropes slung from skyscrapers, straitjackets under water, and having to Are you sure you want to remove Harry Houdini, master of magic. from your list? Harry Houdini transformed the world of magic immensely from card tricks and slight of hand movements to dare devil stunts and large scale illusions. The term, "escape artist" was coined thanks to him. Houdini could perform nearly impossible feats such as jumping from bridges into ice cold water while handcuffed and then escape. Hang upside from buildings while struggling to get out of a pad locked straight jacket. Houdini also starred in his own melodrama/action films - the most popular include - The Master Mystery (the first film ever to feature a robot), The Man From Beyond, and the Grim Game. He came to an untimely death after ignoring what was diagnosed as appendicitis triggered by hard punches to the stomach as part of a demonstration of his strength. Personal Author: Kraske, Robert.
