Historical painting techniques, materials, and studio practice : preprints of a symposium [held at] University of Leiden, the. Netherlands, 26-29 June 1995/ edited by Arie Wallert, Erma. The study of the painting techniques and materials used throughout history and in various cultures is by nature an interdisciplinary exercise. In the past such studies were sometimes conducted with little interaction between art historians, conservators, materials scientists, and historians of science, because each discipline tends to present the results of its studies to different forums. This volume aims to present different approaches to the study of historical painting techniques in the hope that it will encourage cooperation among these various disciplines.
