Answer: Applying the Bible is the duty of all Christians. If we don't apply it, the Bible becomes nothing more to us than a normal book, an impractical collection of old manuscripts. That's why Paul says, "Whatever you have learned or received or heard from me, or seen in me—put it into practice. And the God of peace will be with you" (Philippians 4:9). When we apply the Bible, God Himself will be with us. Apply: The degree to which we study, memorize, and meditate on God's Word is the degree to which we understand how it applies to our lives. But understanding how the Word applies is not enough; we must actually apply it (James 1:22). "Application" implies action, and obedient action is the final step in causing God's Word to come to life in our lives. How can such a book, written so long ago, be applicable and relevant to us today? The Bible becomes relevant as the Holy Spirit, who dwells in all Christians, uses the words of Scripture to sanctify us (John 17:17)—just as an artisan uses various tools to build a beautiful house. Down through human history, moreover, God remains the same—as do God's call to holiness, the reality of sin, and the need for redemption. While our outward circumstances vary greatly, the Bible deals with issues that never change. Whether through reading the Bible personally, hearing it preached, or studying it corporately, believers are called to apply its teaching to all dimensions of life. This comes largely through careful and prayerful meditation on what we have heard or read. The Bible holds objective, unwavering truth. But what's the secret to applying that truth to our lives? And how do we avoid misapplying it? How to Apply the Bible explains the process of reading, understanding, and doing Scripture. Sunday school teachers, pastors, and Bible study leaders will grab on to key principles that revolutionize the way we communicate God's truth to The Bible holds objective, unwavering truth.
